What is Purple Tuesday?

Purple Tuesday has become the #1 brand for improving the customer experience for disabled people and their families 365 days a year. The initiative inspires organisations and their staff, across all sectors and all sizes to promote awareness, develop understanding and put in place practical solutions for greater accessibility. Participation is free. The only requirement is a commitment to make at least one change to practice each year that will enhance the disabled customer experience.

Last year's November celebratory day reached over 23 million people; there were over 7000+ Commitments made to improve accessibility globally; and we celebrated in over 5 countries for the first time ever and we want this year to be even better!

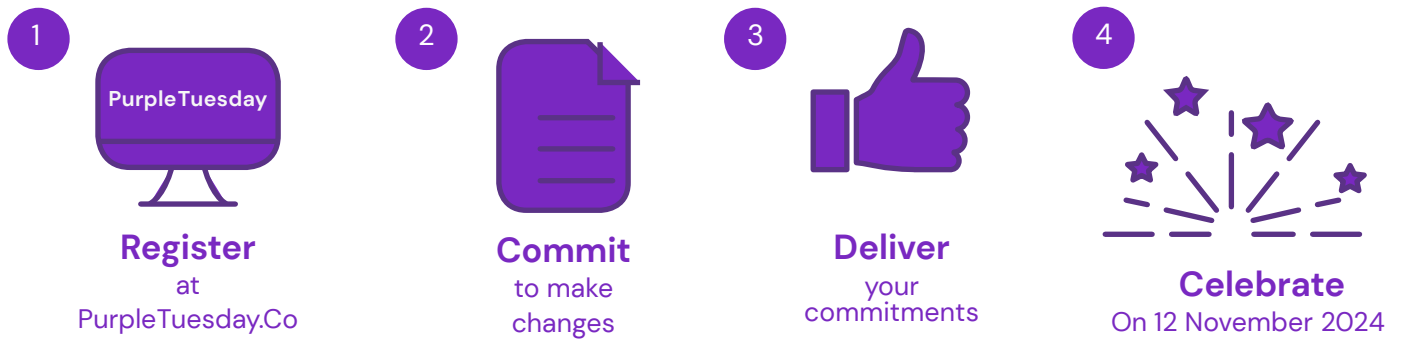

Events will be held around the world on the global celebratory day 12 November 2024. Sign up today to be part of a growing movement of disability inclusive organisations.

What are the key Purple Tuesday benefits

- Purple Tuesday talks to customers—both disabled and non-disabled who want their brands to be inclusive, fair and deliver a high quality experience for everyone. In return, they will reward with brand loyalty.
- Purple Tuesday talks to staff – 50% of working age adults have a relative or someone in their close network with a disability. They desire their employer to ensure that customers with disabilities are not subjected to a subpar experience.
- Purple Tuesday talks to investors who are expecting their investments to return demonstrable social impact.
- Purple Tuesday connects to innovators, thought leaders and like-minded organisations committed to disability and accessibility. It helps foster collaborations and builds new business relationships.

Call to Action

1. Register your organisation at PurpleTuesday.Co/Get-Involved. It is free to participate.
2. Commit to making at least one change that will improve the customer experience for disabled people. If your organisation is already taking actions to improve the customer experience for disabled people, then consider the next intervention to add further impact and value. If this is a new journey, what are the realistic first steps you can take to make a difference. Purple Tuesday can support you throughout this process.
3. Deliver on your committed changes, educate and support your staff so that they can better serve your disabled customers.
4. Celebrate Purple Tuesday with us on 12 November 2024 by turning your organisation purple and sharing your stories through our dedicated social media channels and on your own communication channels for staff and customers.

“ We’re delighted to be supporting Purple Tuesday. We know there are millions of consumers and colleagues with disabilities who want access to services, information, and products, while some will be looking for fulfilling careers within insurance. As a company, but also as an industry, we want to make insurance as inclusive and accessible as possible. We know we’re on a journey, and that there is plenty more to do, but Purple Tuesday are the best possible guides. ”

Commitment ideas

Your commitments need to be completely tailored to your organisation. See examples below of options others have chosen to implement:
